The excess for the West is probably due in part to the distance of the stores from wholesale markets. In Table 22, the amounts of inventories per 100 of total net sales are given for each of the years 1919, 1918, and 1914 for each of the territorial regions. It has already been determined that inventories in terms of sales were lower in 1919 than in either of the other years, when the country as a whole is considered as a unit, Table 22 shows that this is true for each of the different geographical areas. The graphic part of the table emphasizes the margins of difference between the years for each district, For reasons given above, it is doubtful whether the details in this table are wholly comparable from region to region.
