Military Aircraft of the Cold War

By Jim Winchester

Amber Books Ltd. Hardback. Book Condition: new. BRAND NEW, Military Aircraft of the Cold War, Jim Winchester, Born of the struggle for global influence between the great powers in the aftermath of World War II, the Cold War was an era of inexorable technological advancement and a succession of wars-by-proxy between Soviet Russia and the United States. Driven by political pressures and helped by advances made in the latter years of the war by German, British and American scientists, the western powers and the Communist bloc embarked on an unprecedented arms race. Military aircraft were a key part of this ruthless competition, and for many aviation enthusiasts the Cold War was the golden age of the jet fighter. Less than 20 years separated early jets such as the P-80 Shooting Star, scarcely able to overtake a propeller-driven WWII fighter, from interceptors such as the MiG-25 'Foxbat', which was more than 31/2 times faster and capable of flying at over three times the speed of sound. Wars in Korea, Vietnam and other volatile regions gave many of these spectacular and deadly machines a baptism of fire, and some aircraft developed during this period, such as the C-130 Hercules and Boeing B-52,...
