The appearance last July of Bulletin No. 8, Technical Series, Div. of Ent., U. S. Dept. of Agric., by Prof. A. L. Quaintance, entitled: Contributions Toward a Monograph of the American Aleurodidae, brought to the writer s attention this much neglected family. In Illinois there were reported by that paper only three species upon as many hosts. Therefore the writer decided to use his spare time in the study of the local species and such others as he might collect elsewhere. As a result, in the last few months, specimens from about one hundred kinds of plants were collected, of which at least three-fifths are new to the monographic list. From some species of plants as many as five kinds of Aleurodids were found. Host plants...
